Who are Make Some Noise?

We bring innovative technology focused music lessons to your school

For 15 years, Make Some Noise has provided high quality music making opportunities. We create music that taps into young people's interests and skills – projects are inclusive, adaptable to different age groups, and all abilities can take part.

With music provision becoming marginalised within the curriculum, Make Some Noise is striving to bring affordable and inspiring programmes to every child.

Funding from North-West Midlands Music Education Hub has enabled us to offer heavily subsidised prices for two of our most popular 6-week school programmes.

Current price with subsidy:
FREE taster session,
£300 for a 6-week project

Normal price without subsidy:
£250 for a taster session,
£1,500 for a 6-week project

*Taster session is 1 hour, contact Make Some Noise for further information.

Where do Make Some Noise work?

Our lessons are about more than music

“Amazing! I have limited skill in the music department, so having this activity for the children provides them with an amazing experience. I don’t think they will forget this soon.”

Class teacher

We offer two workshop programmes that are booked as 6-week blocks. We will bring everything needed to get started and work towards a common goal. If you are already working on a lesson topic, we can incorporate it into the lessons.

Our work with disadvantaged young people means we are aware of issues and tensions in local communities across the North West Midlands. Our team are sensitive to the individual needs of children and will help you to design a programme that’s achievable and realistic.

Perfect for your inclusion and specialist units, we can tailor programmes to tackle any issue, including challenging subjects such as:

- Bullying
- Racism
- Safety online
- Drugs and alcohol
- Positive relationships.

What does Make Some Noise offer?

Available programmes

Our team of music professionals work with schools to match lessons with a class's ongoing topics. Our music sessions also help to reinforce learning in other areas of study, bolstering confidence and engagement with learning overall.

There are even opportunities for students to work towards the accredited Arts Award Discover (Certificate) or Arts Award Explore (Entry Level 1).

iPad Orchestra

Not every child knows how to play the piano, but almost every child will have used a tablet device before. Our iPad Orchestra means that children can learn to play a variety of virtual instruments in a group using something they're already familiar with. Because there are no barriers for children who might never have picked up a traditional instrument before, our team can get your class creating great music – as a large ensemble – in as little as an hour.

Technology is at the heart of everyday life, which is why the iPad Orchestra is ideal to help young people appreciate that smartphones and tablets aren't just for browsing the internet – they're tools with almost endless creative opportunities.

Available as a six-week module, with the first module free*.

To book please complete the booking form on the back page.

Beatbox Orchestra

Boys can be hard to engage with traditional music lessons, which is why Beatbox Orchestra focuses on beatboxing and vocalising alongside singing. By making music that young people would choose to listen to, they instantly engage and want to make their voices heard. Suitable for all ages and abilities, Beatbox Orchestra is aimed at engaging boys who might think of singing as not being for them, but it is equally suitable for girls. It teaches teamwork, cooperation and builds confidence. It also proves that music is for everybody.

Beatbox Orchestra goes one step further and shows that anyone can make music that they're proud of, even without access to instruments and expensive equipment. We help young people to find their voice through music – and then keep using that voice in their everyday lives.

Available as a six-week module, with the first module free*.

To book please complete the booking form on the back page.

Both programmes also double as a fantastic CPD resource or inset for specialist and non-specialist teachers, learning alongside Make Some Noise practitioners.

Planning a fundraiser?

We can help your class work towards a live gig at the end of the programme; ideal as a fundraiser event. Live gigs also show parents that their children are learning far more than just reading and writing – they're learning to work as a team, be confident and to be proud of their achievements. The songs performed will be unique to your school and can be upbeat to celebrate an achievement or more hard-hitting to address a difficult subject.

*The first module is offered as a taster; however, all six modules must be booked to receive a free taster.

Booking

Book now to guarantee your subsidised sessions

Our available programmes are currently subsidised, so they are a cost of £300 (instead of £1,500). The huge discount currently being offered is only possible due to funding from the North-West Midlands Music Education Hub.

The earlier you book, the more time we'll have to work with your team and decide on the best programme and theme for your students. The subsidies are offered on a first come, first served basis.
